

LEO BAECK (LONDON) LODGE B'NAI B'RITH

SCHOLARSHIP COMMITTEE

DETAILS AND CONDITIONS OF THE SCHOLARSHIP AWARD SCHEME

The Lodge annually awards a limited number of scholarships to Jewish students wishing to undertake post-graduate or post-doctoral studies or research at universities or other approved professional/educational institutions in the UK. The average award is currently around £3,000 per annum and is intended to assist with course/tuition fees and living expenses (but not re-location expenses) and supplement other sources of income. Although the scholarships are not automatically renewed, the Committee will normally make a commitment to support successful candidates undertaking Ph.D level studies for a maximum of three years. Applicants are expected to live in the UK for the duration of their course.

Top priority is given to the following disciplines: physical/environmental/life sciences, mathematics and computing, medicine, technology and engineering.

Applications may also be accepted for studies in social sciences, economics, education, arts and music, but only where their emphasis is either therapeutic or educational. The Committee will not support studies of Law subjects.

Applications from those who are already engaged in the course of study, for which assistance is requested, will normally be given a lower priority rating.

Please DO NOT APPLY if your chosen field of study is not included in the above list of disciplines.

Applications must be made, by e-mail, on the official application form during the academic year prior to the proposed beginning of the course of study. The closing date for receipt of your completed application form is 31 January 2011 for the academic year beginning the following autumn.

All questions on the application form must be answered in adequate detail, and a realistic plan must be submitted, showing how you will finance your studies, including the award of a Leo Baeck (London) Lodge scholarship.

Evidence of an application to or acceptance by the institution must be produced when applying for a grant.

Before sending in your application form, please check carefully that:

- Your proposed course of study falls within one of the above-listed disciplines.
- You have provided adequate details of how you will finance your studies in the UK, including the payment of fees and all living expenses.
